

ESG – Statement of Commitment

CDC delivers trusted services that support government and critical infrastructure organisations to ensure security, safety, prosperity and wellbeing across Australia and New Zealand. CDC puts customers at the heart of everything, with an uncompromising approach to excellence and a culture of inclusion, diversity and sustainability.

CDC is committed to:

Industry leadership.

- Design and operate for highest resilience, availability and industry-leading security.
- Safeguard against future changes by developing adaptable people, supply chain, systems and data centres.
- Apply a robust approach to governance, health & safety, environment & nature, climate change resilience, net zero carbon emissions, and zero waste operational practices.

Excellence and improvement.

- Foster a workforce and supply chain that supports people with different backgrounds, promotes the upholding of human rights and mitigates the risks of modern slavery.
- Promote a culture of excellence by demonstrating achievement, innovation and continual progress.
- Provide growth, development and career opportunities from within CDC, utilising our tailored CDC Academy development program to boost skills.

Broad collaboration.

- Drive sustainable and secure outcomes across the industry by partnering to innovate, solve problems and promote progress.
- Contribute positively to our communities and supply chain.
- Engage with First Nations organisations in Australia and New Zealand.

These actions are driven by a comprehensive ESG strategy that sets the ambition to be industry-leading on CDC's material issues.

The ESG Statement of Commitment is approved by CDC's Board of Directors and is reviewed annually.
